Skippers Beat Middleboro To Turn Season Around

One win may not mean a winning season. But it sure has Cohasset thinking that baseball season has turned around. Ironically, though, in addition to the win, a loss may have been the real psychological turning point for Coach Ev Dorr's Skippers.

It started last week when Cohasset had South Shore League powerhouse Hull hanging on the ropes, ripe for a knockout. But the young Skippers weren't able to deliver the knockout punch, and the Pirates escaped via a six-run rally in the seventh inning to pull it out, 9-4.

"If it was anyone's fault it was mine," declared Coach Dorr. "I called to walk a Hull slugger to fill the bases, but the strategy backfired."

"But you'd never have known we lost after the game. The kids actually were the happiest they'd been all season coming so close to knocking off a club like Hull. I really think it may have been the turning point for us."

It was last Monday.

Cohasset's opposition was Middleboro, also right up there in contention for SSL honors and a team which had beaten the Skippers, 9-0, in their first encounter earlier in the season.

When the smoke cleared this time around, Cohasset had turned the tables on Middleboro, 4-0, for their second win of the season.

Winning pitcher was sophomore Billy Kurtz, who thus posted his first varsity victory as a moundsman.

Kurtz struck out three and walked only four in collecting the shutout.

Cohasset scored in the very first inning on an error.

But in the fourth, Tom Piperbrink singled knocking in two more runs to send the Skippers up by 3-0.

And in the fifth, Fred Espinosa slammed a triple, then trotted home when Catcher Jim Sullivan delivered in the clutch with a single.

"We left 11 men on base, so the hitting was there," related Dorr. "But it was a tremendous game for the kids who really showed their stuff coming back from the Hull loss. They could have been down after coming so close against Hull. But they didn't quit. Now I think we're ready to win some more games."

The Skippers already have equalled their record of two victories of a season ago so there's no place to go but up in Dorr's book.

So elated was Dorr he took his wife out to dinner at the Alewife Tavern in Norwell after Monday's victory.

If the Skippers live up to their Coach's expectations, Mrs. Dorr may enjoy quite a few more dinners out.

HIGH, HARD ONE — Mike Jones, relief pitcher for the Cohasset varsity baseball team, lets fly in warmup session as Catcher Mike MacDonald awaits the pitch.
